

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A microphone inlet structure has a sound duct between an opening in a first face of a microphone casing and a gasket area, whereby the gasket area is shaped to extend around the opening in the microphone casing and to follow the outline of the first face at least in the area near the opening.